Introduction to Motivational Interviewing

6-CE Hours March 11, 2024 $285.00
9am to 4pm On-Line Via Zoom

Identifying the desired outcome of a client seeking your services, recognizing their agenda and acknowledging what brings them to seek services are initial steps in utilizing the skill of motivational interviewing.

Based on the concept of contemplative change, motivational interviewing is a skill that enables the professional to maximize the degree of client engagement in the helping process while providing measurable outcomes that match the client's desired expectations.

As a result of this training, participants will be able to:

- Describe the elements and function of motivational interviewing.
- Describe the major stages of the contemplative change model.
- Define the role of motivational interviewing in the change process.
- Apply motivational interviewing to clinical practice.

Pre-registration and pre-payment is required. Registration closes 3/8/24
Zoom links and materials downloads will be e-mailed prior to the first day of training. Participants needing materials in alternate formats should contact EDENS GROUP no later than 10 business days before the training.
